

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

There is provided a method for recovering energy from glass windshields removed from vehicles which comprises the step of separating a polyvinyl butyral polymer from the glass in a windshield and using the recovered polyvinyl butyral polymer as a fuel to replace a fossil fuel in an energy creating plant or alternatively to use the polyvinyl butyral polymer as an adhesive.